HIS PLEAS IN VAIN.

Baltimore Wife Beater Sentenced to Lashes and Jail.

Baltimore, March 8. The spectacle was witnessed in the criminal court here to-day of a white man, who had brutally beaten his wife, pleading for mercy with tears streaming down his face, when he heard the sentence of five lashes at the whipping post and imprisonment in jail. But there was no mercy, because the testimony showed that Frank McCauley struck his wife seven or eight times, choked her and then took from her more than $20. It was the second sentence of a wife beater to the post by Judge Duffy within a month.

CLEW IN POPULAR SONG.

Chauffeur Whistled Tune that Led Detectives to Find Missing Ring.

Mrs. Frederick Hartwig, a bride, living at 945 Oden avenue, notified the Highbridge police station that her diamond engagement ring, valued at $115, had disappeared while she was making change for the chauffeur of a delivery wagon, says the New York Herald. Police men Buddenmeyer and O'Mara were sent around to investigate. She told them that the man had delivered several packages to her in the kitchen. She went into another room to get her pocketbook to pay him. After he had gone she missed the ring.

She described the driver, and the detectives went to the stables of a department store, at Park avenue and 133rd street. There they scrutinized all the employees, and finally picked out John J. Kelly, a chauffeur. He was searched but no trace of the ring could be found. "Wrong man, I guess," said O'Mara, and the chauffeur began to put on his clothes. So pronounced was Kelly's relief that he began whistling a popular air as he adjusted his tie.

"I know that tune," said Buddenmeyer. "It's something about bells on his fingers and rings on his toes. Do you suppose he means anything by it?"

Let's see," said O'Mara. Then he turned to Kelly. "Take off your socks," he said. Kelly's face fell, but he pulled off the hosiery. The policemen say they found the missing ring encircling the little toe on the left foot.

By Side of Dead Wife Commits Suicide.

Marlboro Times.

Driven into temporary insanity by the sudden death of his young wife, Mr. Milo Pendleton, a prominent business man of Warrenton, N. C., last Friday morning about 2 o'clock, blew out his brains with a revolver and died instantly by the bedside of his wife. The young wife of Mr. Pendleton had been ill for several days. He was watching by the bedside in company with a physician, when she died suddenly of heart failure. He requested the physician to go to a telephone and call his friends. While the physician was at the telephone the grief-stricken man picked up a revolver from the dresser and blew out his brains. Death was almost instantaneous. He sank down by the side of his dead wife.

The deceased was engaged in the drug business and was doing well financially.

COUNT LOOKING FOR WORK.

"Honest Toil Not Degrading to Any One," Declares Von Ehrenfels.

"I believe that honest and well-meant work is not degrading to anybody, no matter what his social standing may be or what title he bears."

The above answer was given an American reporter yesterday by Count Fred Egon Taglen von Ehrenfels, when he was asked his brother counts would say when they heard that one of their number was looking for a job.

The Count von Ehrenfels is the son of a wealthy German family. When he was fifteen years old, eleven years ago he came to this country and decided to stay. His family ordered him home. But he refused to go back. The remittances stopped and the Count got work as secretary to a German physician, whose death made it necessary for him to seek another job.

Three Negroes Killed. Georgetown, March 4.—At about 6 o'clock this morning a boiler in one of the mills of the Atlantic Coast Lumber corporation exploded, killing one negro instantly and injuring two others so seriously that they died later to-day.

The plant was damaged from $20,000 to $30,000, the loss probably being covered by insurance.

The cause of the explosion has not been ascertained.
